OBITTARY-

Death of Judge E. S. Fisher. nce more have the unseen arrows of death reed the heart of one whom we loved and dust. Judge E. S. Fisitas, one of our best iswyers, died very suddenly Thursday night, from an attack of apoplexy. He had been unusually jovial all the evening, and with his usual mirthful and interesting conversation, oheered the faces of friends. About nine o'clock he complained to his son of a severa paln over his left eye, and left the porch to seek relief on his bed. While attempting it he felt, and a few hours later his serrowing friends stood beside his corpse. He leaves behind a widow, daughter and two sons. In the morning he spoke to usef his fulure plana, and his hope to have soon his wife and daughter with him, and spend the last days of his life with themsin our midst; and at night he was called before a higher court than that before which he used to plead at successfully.
Judge Fisher was born at Danville. Dayle county, Kentucky, in November, Bift, and was educated at Center College, located at the same place. In 1833 he emigrated to Vicksburs, Miss., and having completed his law
